SUMMARY

I see design as more than how things look. It is how ideas take shape, brands find their identity, and businesses turn ambition into something people can experience. My career has grown from hands-on design into creative direction, brand building, and digital product development. Through INTELLIGNCE and work with brands like Morganics, I bring together strategic thinking, creative craft, and the ownership to take ideas from concept to execution. I'm at my best where business challenges need clear thinking, strong creative direction, and solutions built to make a difference.
